

June 1, 2007 Concurrent Technologies Corporation Continues to Receive High Recognition

For Immediate Release

June 1, 2007

Concurrent Technologies Corporation Continues to Receive High Recognition

JOHNSTOWN, PA - Today at the annual Showcase for Commerce, Congressman John P. Murtha announced that Concurrent Technologies Corporation (CTC) has been listed by Washington Technology magazine in its "Special Report - Top 100 Government Contractors," May 14, 2007 issue. Murtha also announced that CTC has been nominated for the prestigious 2007 Secretary of Defense Employer Support Freedom Award for its continuing support of employees who serve in the National Guard and Reserve.

For its 14th annual ranking, Washington Technology evaluated companies on how they solve customers' problems, support critical missions, decrease costs, and provide technology-rich products and services to the federal government.

"Washington Technology's recognition of CTC as one of the Top 100 federal prime contractors is true testament to CTC's growing national reputation based upon our commitment to excellence in meeting the needs of our clients," said Daniel R. DeVos, President & CEO of CTC.

CTC has also been nominated for the prestigious 2007 Secretary of Defense Employer Support Freedom Award. The national Freedom Award is sponsored by the Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR), within the Department of Defense. CTC received nominations for this award from the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Connecticut, Missouri, and Washington.

The Freedom Award recognizes employers for policies and practices that support their employees' participation in the National Guard and Reserve. ESGR accepts nominations for recognition and awards from employees or their family members. The Freedom Award is the highest honor that the DoD bestows upon employers. Since 1996, the award has been presented annually by the Secretary of Defense to up to 15 employers. Recipients will be announced this summer.

"While our employees are volunteering to safeguard our national security, we don't want them to be unnecessarily concerned about their employment with CTC," DeVos said. In addition to providing job security and benefits upon their return, we also offer moral support by keeping in touch with the employees to the extent possible, sending notes and care packages, and calling and checking on family members. It's just the right thing to do," said DeVos.

"CTC's commitment to our National Guard and Reserve proudly serving overseas is commendable," Murtha said. "Their consistent work on behalf of our men and women in uniform is a true testament to the commitment from defense companies in our area and the valuable services they provide to our armed forces."

CTC is an independent, nonprofit, applied research and development professional services organization providing innovative management and technology-based solutions to a wide array of clients representing state and federal government as well as the private sector. Established in 1987, CTC operates from more than 35 locations with a staff of 1,500 employees.